Dear June Mohr:

Alida Segal is a personal friend and professional colleague. We attended several professional seminars and conferences, including Microsoft, Oracle, Denovo, and Amazon, that is how we met. We have both worked at several CUNY schools. She is very good at explaining computer concepts to novice users as well as advanced students. She is confident but not overly. Everyone has specific strengths and everyone has specific weaknesses. She is resilient and she is aware of what her weaknesses are, it shows that she knows where her boundaries are. She has faced obstacles and can handle constructive criticism.

Alida is reliable, dedicated, and eternally upbeat. She worked well within our teams and has a natural ability to be a great leader. She can handle the demands of the job and she is very organized. She was able to juggle several projects at one time while delivering results. Organized and diligent, Alida quickly learned technology systems and software that were unfamiliar to her at first, such as Java.

Alida is a hardworking, top-performing professional. She has my highest recommendation, and I am happy to furnish more details if you would like additional information. If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact me, (914) 964-8367.

Sincerely,

Mary C. Tedeschi
